I ordered a new book for $50. I received a book that has been used used and then repackaged. I don't think that's appropriate. I can clearly see pencil eraser marks in this book. It's bad enough that they didn't bother to bind the book (not to mention the MANY grammatical errors in this edition), but they tried to erase pencil marks and pass this off as new?

I was required to buy this book for school. I read enough to get the idea and do the assignments. I'm sure it's helpful to someone.

So let me begin by saying that I am majoring in Elementary Education and Special Education, so I was required to take a special education course and we used this text book. This text book clearly describes and guides a student through processes, situations, and laws that they will encounter as a Special Education teacher. The book uses "Family Stories", which guide you (the student) through that specific chapter. I found this textbook to be extremely easy to follow and read. This is one textbook that I plan on holding onto for future reference.

It was a good read. I normally prefer an actual book, but had to get a Kindle version due to time constraints. It wasn't bad. I will consider purchasing this way again.

Book was in good shape but contents were unbelievably boring.

I have this book as a required reading for one of my grad classes. I will be keeping it for future reference. It is easy to read, and has relevant and useful information about collaboration between home and school.

My book arrived in great condition, and it has been an interesting and informative read so far. But just because it is a textbook, it is extremely overpriced. (And is the cheapest I could find.) This would be better if the book was a higher quality. The pages are very thin. The cover is flimsy, and has curled from the humidity in my house (which isn't excessive.)

Have a binder ready to keep things in order. Etextbook is only the text, no quizzes or other supplemental resources, so I wouldn't open it and get a better buyback price.
