Branch Of The Talking Teeth (On Time's Wing Series)

Synopsis

It is 7000 years ago in the Land of the Blue Rock - before the Great Pyramids, or the Bible. Willful young Teta is guiding her wounded friend Moonhead, an attractive stranger and storyteller from across the sea, to safe haven at the edge of the Great Snow Wall. They are being pursued by the vengeful Soogat, who is now only two days' journey behind. Once friends, Soogat now views the popular Moonhead as a rival and threat to his leadership over the South People. Can Teta prevent a terrible showdown? Will Moonhead love her as she loves him? Inspired by the discovery of an ancient and mysterious burial mound on the Labrador Coast, Ishbel Moore has woven a suspenseful tale of how it might have come to be.

Customer Reviews

"An imaginative and involving novel." -- Quill and Quire, September 1995 "An inventive recreation of primitive society . . . Moore's best tale so far." -- The Weekend Sun, November 18, 1995 "Moore's book is an inventive recreation of a primitive society, still centered on survival in an unforgiving environment. This is Moore's best tale so far." (Andrea Deakin, Vancouver Sun) "Moore presents a tantalizing glimpse into the ancient past as she emphasizes the importance of story for all peoples." (Resource Links) "A suspenseful adventure, touched by the romantic involvement of the main characters, may serve to pique the interest of young readers in the mysteries of early voyages across the Atlantic. Curriculum Integration suggestion: Social Studies: history, geography." -- Canadian Content
