Namibia Space

Synopsis

Namibia Space takes the reader on a virtual tour of every corner of this haunting and beautiful country. It is packed with glorious full-color photographs and first-hand experiences. We come to know the appeal of Namibia for travellers: the history, close-up Nature, infinite sand shaped by constant wind, exotic people (many of whom have turned their backs on civilization and still practice their old ways), great herds of animals — and there is “The Road,” with its infinite possibilities. Through a remarkable series of photographs and writings we share Chris and Julie’s experiences on the Namibian road. Namibia Space shows us their Namibia.

South African Julienne du Toit has built an international reputation in the world of environmental journalism. In 2002, this award-winning editor of Keeping Track magazine won the Africa & Middle East category in the IUCN-Reuters awards for best reporting on the World Summit for Sustainable Development. Currently specializing in southern African environmental issues and poverty relief projects, Julienne is also a lifestyle and travel writer who travels throughout the region with her photo-journalist husband Chris Marais. Award-winning photo-journalist Chris Marais is well known for his work in Country Life and Sawubona magazines. He has worked on assignment in more than 50 countries and is part of the pack of wanderlust journalists who love nothing better than to travel with a camera and an open mind. Having won top South African awards for magazine editing, investigative journalism, travel writing and photography, he now fully indulges his love for the southern African region, its wilderness and its people.
