How Not To Start Third Grade (Step Into Reading 4)

Synopsis

Will should be excited to start third grade. But his little brother, Steve, is starting kindergarten. The same laugh-out-loud writing and hilarious illustrations that brought us How Not to Babysit Your Brother now portray the tribulations and embarrassments of starting school with a very troublesome little brother. School will never be the same! Cathy Hapka and Ellen Titlebaum are the authors of many books for children. This is their second book about Will and Steve. They live in Lincoln University, Pennsylvania, and New York City, respectively. Debbie Palen has illustrated many books for children, including How Not to Babysit Your Brother and the first four books in the Andrew Lost series. She lives in Cleveland, Ohio.

"Back-to-School Lesson #6: Never think that starting school with your little brother could be anything but a total and complete disaster," says Will, who is looking forward to his first day of third grade. Will is also dreading his rowdy little brother Steve's first day of kindergarten at the same school. As expected, Steve's high jinks cause one upset after another, culminating in an all-school food fight. Divided into brief chapters, this Step into Reading title is well tuned to a newly confident reader's abilities. Simply constructed sentences and brisk dialogue make use of lively vocabulary and plenty of active verbs. Large color illustrations extend the mayhem with cartoonish characters, exaggerated expressions, and lots of activity. . Engberg, Gillian --This text refers to the Library Binding edition.
