Introduction To Mass Communication: Media Literacy And Culture

Synopsis

Introduction to Mass Communication: Media Literacy and Culture is an integrated program that encourages students to be active media consumers and gives them a deeper understanding of the role that the media plays in both shaping and reflecting culture. Through this cultural perspective, students learn that audience members are as much a part of the mass communication process as are the media producers, technologies, and industries. This was the first, and remains the only, university-level program to make media literacy central to its approach, and given recent national and global turmoil, its emphasis on media use and democracy could not be more timely.

Stanley Baran earned his Ph.D. in communication research at the University of Massachusetts after taking his M.A. in journalism at Pennsylvania State University. He taught for 4 years at Cleveland State University, eventually moving to the University of Texas. He led the Department of Radio-TV-Film's graduate program for 6 of his 9 years in Austin and won numerous teaching awards there, including the AMOCO Teaching Excellence Award as the best instructor on that 40,000-student campus, the College of Communication's Teaching Excellence Award as that college's outstanding professor, and Utmost Magazine's Student Poll for best instructor. Dr. Baran moved to San Jose State University in 1987 and served 9 years as chair of the Department of Television, Radio, Film, and Theatre. At SJSU he was named President's Scholar as the University's outstanding researcher. Now, he teaches at Bryant University, where he is the founding chair of that school's Communication Department. Among his other experiences shaping this book are service as a Fulbright Scholar and his many years of professional activity in audience research, writing for radio, and producing for television. Dr. Baran has published 10 books and scores of scholarly articles and sits or has sat on the editorial boards of six journals. His work has been translated into half-a-dozen languages. He is a skilled boater and a tenor saxophonist for the Wakefield, Rhode Island, Concert Band. He is married to Susan Baran and has two very cool children, Matt and Jordan, who grew up much faster than he wanted.

A new copy of this textbook does NOT come with a Connect access code. No other review seems to mention this, and the book's description is deceptively unclear. Just a heads up to anyone else who is unfortunate enough to have a professor that is using the online program. The greedy publisher is more than happy to charge you $145 for a new book and then another $65 for the code separately. Do not pay full price for this.

If you rent this book, it won't come with the registration code for the portal access (some classes are required to have this portal access). Be prepared to another $60+.

This is just a poor PDF version of the print book. It is not formatted for my Kindle. I have to spend a lot of time moving the page around. The publisher should really investigate getting into the REAL ebook market.

Bought this used one on with a amazing price. Only minor stains on the cover but the inside was perfect.

I have the Kindle App on my phone, computer and an actual Kindle, yet this publication is not compatible with ANY of my registered devices.

thanks
